gang of rail-birds and shark bettors at Clifton some four or five years ago, and the story is worth repeating.

"It was when Autocrat was good and in the old days at Clifton," said Jimmy, "be-fore the new paddock was built and the railbird sharks used to six on the hill near the turn to watch the horses warm up. I took Autocrat out to warm up and I spied this gang on the hilitop. I didn't know what to do. I trotted the horse up and down a few times and got him thoroughly warmed up without sending him through the stretch. The price against Autocrat was only 3 to 5, and I knew that the minute I sent money in the ring the price would be wiped, and I wouldn't be able to get on. Now, among the crowd on the hill was Frank McCabe who was then training for the Dwyers. He had come ever to see Bill Daly on business. Daly, you know, had Inspector B. and Hanover and one or two others at his farm in Hartford, and they say that when McCabe went up there be couldn't recognize the horses. Well, Mc-Cabe only came over to Clifton once in a while, and the crowd put him up to come and see me about Autocrat. 'You go see him Frank. He'll tell you, because you're a good friend and be known you only come over once Frank. He'll tell you, because you're a good friend and he knows you only come over once and a while, was about the drift of their remarks. Frank, he came down and I waited until he got up to me.

"Well," says he, "can I put $10 on your horse to win out expenses?"

"Have you got any money with you?" said I in reply, without answering his question.

"Yes," said he.

"Well, will you do just as I tell you?" He nodded, and I said: "You go into the ring and scatter $25 on Ban Adonia." This was Honig's horse, and he was reputed to be pretty fast.

and scatter $25 on Ban Adonia." This was Heely's horse, and he was reputed to be pretty fast.

"Yes," said he, "but how about Autocrat."
"Do as I tell you," I said, and he tumbled then and went into the ring. Well, you've seen a funeral cortege move. That was just what that gang of railbirds looked like. They got up in a body and moved off after Frank. There was a little wicket gate at the paddeck ontrance, and they broke this down in their haste to see what McCabe had learned. The ring was waiting for Autocrat money, but none came in McCabe went into the ring and reappeared about five minutes later. I hardly know him. His hat was dented and his clothes were torn, and his newly snined shoes were covered with mud. He had bet $15 on Ban Adonia. The dent in his nat and his tora clothes were the results of his efforts to get the other ten on. The gang just killed Ban Adonia, and when they got through I went in and got my commission on Autocrat ar comfortable odds. I gave McCabe back his $15 and let him in $50 on my bet. Autocratz won easily enough, and you despilt your sides laughing at the way the gang sympathized with McCabe on account of his being thrown down, as they supposed, by me. But they never sent any one to me after that."

McCormick is about as clever as any one in the business at hoodwinking outsiders in regard to the condition of his horses. Not he is always out for the money, and this knowledge makes the bookies lay short prices against anything he starts. The bookies have not day last Winter. Early Blossom was in a short price. McCormick scorched them one day last Winter. Early Blossom was in a short price. McCormick seed her out to warm up. The boy trotted her to the end of the betting ring. The Hudson County Jockey Club has re-ceived an official notification from the Haw-thorne track (Chicago), that Jockey Kuutze had been ruled off there for fraud. The Gut-tenburg people will therefore recognize the ruling and keep Kuntze on the ground.

The night school at Guttenburg opened last evening with a splendid attendance. Seventy-four stable buys listened to Principal Demo-rest's opening address. Only ten of this lot are able to read or write. Curlosity, no doubt, was responsible for the large number of boys present.

W. B. McCormick has sold Onaway to R. J. Huteninson, of Gloucester. Eugene Leigh is wheeling into line once more. He won three of the six races at Guttenburg yesterday.

Bradley tried to surprise the crowd yester-day with Blitzen, but the son of Blazes was a trife toe short. He will be a hard horse to tackle from now on, however.

Sir Rae went lame in his preliminary yes-terday, and had to be withdrawn. The Khaftan Stable is having more than its share of hard luck.
